When manually saving your notes, you'll have a wide range of options available to you, such as which folder you'd like to save it to, how the notes will look, the font, and color. Thanks for reading. Textylic is a fantastic Windows application, with no flaws that I could see! Sticky Notes is actually just a launcher (a bloatware app by the way) and keeps popping up every time you try to exit it. It's really frustrating and it can trigger your PC to freeze too. Textylic keeps the same great design as the Sticky Notes on Windows 10 and it doesn't bother you like Sticky Notes. However, Textylic only works on the desktop. To install it, simply press Ctrl-Shift-L and search for Textylic. The complete installation is quick and it will only take a minute! What is Textylic exactly? Just like Sticky Notes, Textylic is a note-taking app that allows you to freely write text on your desktop. It's also a nifty application that lets you view your notes, create new notes, and change the font and color of the selected note. What makes it stand out is the fact that it's completely free and will not annoy you like St a69d392a70

What's New In?

Textylic is a note-taking application that brings back the useful ideas of the old-fashioned Windows desktop widgets, and blends those with modern ideas of usability and flexibility. It is a small application with beautiful and light color scheme, and offers a straight-forward interface and interaction with the system. However, it also introduces a nice selection of text formatting options, a cool feature that is not available in Microsoft Sticky Notes. It has not only its own interface and design but also makes use of similar elements like the Alarm Bar of Windows 7, so users familiar with this interface will feel right at home. The app has a few shortcomings, though, like bad integration with the taskbar and a cluttered interface on other desktop elements, which needs to be cleaned up. What we actually like most about Textylic is its ability to organize notes in a dropdown menu, like the one used in Microsoft Sticky Notes. This makes it much easier to find the item you're looking for because of the quick access to notes and the fact they are automatically saved in groups of similar items. Additional features are not present and the app does not share a huge database of third-party plug-ins for better compatibility. Key features: Smooth and nice interface Light color scheme Drawers, notes, and folders Text formatting options like underline, bold, italic, and color Select a color for notes automatically Sort notes by name, date, folder Drag and drop to move notes between folders Quick access to notes in the system menu Batch clipboards It supports saving notes only once, so changes are immediately saved What we don't like about Textylic: It's not compatible with other native text entry tools Requires Java to run Some small issues and bugs with the interface It's not optimized for touch screens, only for Windows 7 Future Updates Textylic offers updates via the Windows Store. These updates are usually bug-fixing. Textylic definitely deserves a spot in every Windows user's arsenal, and comes recommended for those who enjoy the simplicity of the ideas and interface of the Sticky Notes app. It offers a lot of really handy features, while maintaining a really sleek and neat appearance. Textylic is a great note-taking app that brings back the simplicity and style of the Windows 7 desktop widgets. Though it does have its drawbacks, Textylic is a decent and useful application that everybody will get
