Q: Global variabe not storing I am experiencing an issue with my application where a global variable is not storing/retrieving. I have decided to apply the recommended solution in the other stackoverflow questions asking similar questions. The problem is I am not entirely sure what i am doing wrong in my code, I am new to JavaScript. I cannot see where I am doing anything wrong or getting the wrong idea about how a global variable works. My console.log(groups) displays an empty array, so at the very least it is going into the loop. My HTML: The JavaScript: (function () { var groups = []; var groups_list = []; var games_list = []; var i = 1; setInterval(function () { for (i = 1; i <= 10; i ++).addClass('game'); $('').addClass('game_h2').text(game.attr('title')); game.appendTo('.games'); groups.push(game); game = $('').addClass('game_image').attr('src', 'images/game_' + i + '.png'); game.appendTo('.game'); game = $('').addClass('game_text').text('Space Digger'); game.appendTo('.game_text'); game = $('').addClass('game_text').text('Vlambeer'); game.appendTo('.game_text'); game = $('').addClass('game_text').text('Starbreeze'); game.appendTo('.game_text'); groups_list.push(game); console.log(groups); //logs an empty array } }, 3000); })(); Any help would be greatly appreciated

Is there a cure for the common cold? Cold symptoms are almost always caused by a virus and there is no cure for the common cold. If your cold is mild, your doctor may prescribe an over-the-counter medication like a cough suppressant. For severe symptoms like nasal congestion and a stuffy nose, cold medication can help. The cold itself doesn't have to be serious to put you out of commission for days. Common cold symptoms Are you the one who gets sick every time he or she goes out? How bad is your cold? What might be going on? Symptoms of a cold are common and vary from person to person. Common cold symptoms include: Cough Sneezing Runny nose Itchy nose Headaches Muscle aches Stuffy nose Fatigue Sleepiness Sleepy eyes Weakness Other symptoms of the common cold include: Sore throat Coughing up mucus Earache Chills and fever Nausea and vomiting Loss of appetite Severe symptoms like nasal congestion, sore throat, muscle aches and fever may indicate the cold virus has passed to the respiratory tract (lungs, trachea, nose, sinuses) causing cold bronchitis. While most people will recover from their cold in one to three days, some will develop a complication called bronchitis. Common cold cold facts The common cold is caused by a virus that is spread via the air (person-to-person spread) or by direct contact with someone who is sick (via contaminated hands or objects). Colds start when a virus first invades and replicates in nasal or throat mucous membranes. The virus then travels via the air to your respiratory tract where it infects and causes symptoms. Colds occur more often in winter and spring, and this is probably because the virus is more common in summer. The common cold is a very contagious disease and can be spread from person to person. Symptoms of a cold virus generally last two to five days. Is there a cure for the common cold? There is no cure for a cold, but there are common cold treatments that can help shorten the duration of symptoms. While some people think that something like chicken soup will help
