The human homolog of the Drosophila gurken gene, GRH1, was mapped to chromosome 19p13.3 by fluorescence in situ hybridization. Northern blot analysis suggested that GRH1 and its murine homolog, Ghrl, were expressed in the developing central nervous system, olfactory epithelium, and pancreas. In situ hybridization showed that GRH1 was expressed in the intermediate zone of the developing mouse cerebellum, and heterologous antisense probes hybridized to this region. These results are consistent with a homologous function for GRH1 in the developing mammalian central nervous system.Q: Issue with jQuery Mobile custom theme I am trying to create a custom look for a jQuery Mobile page. I have figured out how to customise a screen, but my custom navigation menus still look the same as the original. If you take a look at the code snippet you will see the default look of the menu and the customised code I added. $(document).ready(function() { $('#page1').trigger('pagecreate'); });
