An electronic camera has a short memory size which is a low capacity; thus, this memory is not big enough to hold a large amount of images. In this case, when the memory becomes full, an image management function is utilized to delete an oldest image to store a next image. However, to realize the image management function, only one type of image data is managed. This Letter describes the first direct observation of a single spin reversibly coupled to a cavity. By monitoring the time evolution of a Rabi oscillation on a charge sensor we image the dynamics of the spin-cavity system, which is measured in a high magnetic field. Combining the results with data taken in zero magnetic field, we determine the spectral response of the spin-cavity system for the same high magnetic field. This methodology opens up the possibility for repeated experiments in a high magnetic field.Q: Inserting data into MySQL DB through PHP script not working Problem: I am simply trying to add information into a database, but it does not seem to be working. I have triple checked the DB connection string that is sent into the code, and double checked the script. Both work and connect, but still I cannot get the form to complete the INSERT.
