Earning a spot on this list of best graphic design programs requires three things: 1) a high rank in the D&AD ad "Landscape of Graphic Design" 2018 Survey and D&AD Global Landscape Report, 2) high editorial review and 3) strong support for the past 5 years. To qualify for the list, a graphic design program must have received an exceptionally strong vote in all three categories, as well as in the categories of editorial review and support. Survey Review Editorial Support D&AD Landscape 2018 45.83 45.91 46.06 "Landscape of Graphic Design" D&AD Global Landscape Report 2018 45.65 45.72 45.91 Also, it should be noted that while most of these programs also received a strong review from AI Editorial Review, that aspect of the review is not used to qualify programs for the Best list. Use our tool to compare graphics design programs The editorial review data and editorial scores are provided by a team of industry experts. While the scores are important, they are only one part of a comprehensive review. The scores also depend on the level of editorial review the program has received over the last five years. The editorial score is an average of AI Editorial Review scores for the categories of "Design Quality," "User Experience," "Applications," and "Perks and Extras" (if applicable). As stated, the scores are just one part of a comprehensive review, but when used in conjunction with the editorial review data, they help put the editorial review results in perspective. What is best for you will depend on your specific needs, budget, goals and preferences. Of course, if you are looking for a program that can accomplish a great deal with the least amount of effort, then you may want to look for a program with a low price and low cost. But, if you're looking for a graphics design program that can help you reach your creative goals, then you're better off with a program that's easy to use, with lots of tools and options, that gives you the ability to achieve the look you desire with the least amount of effort. Programs with an average score of 45 or above are included in this list. The programs that were included in the Best list are highlighted with an asterisk (*).
