The different processes in creating a visual image may include working with photographs, collage, and digital imaging. It may also include video-based editing and video editing, graphic design and computer art. The field of journalism includes photojournalism, a form of photography where images are used to report real events. History Photoshop is a drawing program developed at the Advanced Typography Group in Palo Alto, California (now owned by Adobe Systems) in 1994. It was based on CorelDRAW, and mainly used to create print-ready vector graphics. It was originally called "Pix" or "Pixl" and "Pixl" was an instant-response command in an early version of Macintosh OS/2. The name "Photoshop" (abbreviated from PhotoShop) was proposed by Paul Maritz to Chief Scientist John Warnock in the early 1990s. Photoshop came to market in late 1994 with Version 2.0. The first version of Photoshop was called "Graphics Plus", and it was not sold commercially, only via subscription to Adobe. Adobe sold for $350 a year then, and the first version of Photoshop (2.0) cost $300 (about $1,500 in 2018 dollars). Photoshop 3.0 (released in 1996) included some of the first use of layers, with basic editing features. It was priced at $495 and took Photoshop up to $2,000. Photoshop 3.0 was an update to what was marketed as "Graphics Suite." The first set of tools sold as a complete package were called "Premiere" and were not included with Photoshop at all. Adobe called it "Photoshop Plus." Photoshop 3.5 released in May 1997 included much of what would appear in other versions. 3.5 included the concept of "smart objects," which allowed objects to become their own layer. Photoshop 5.0 (released in November 1997) released with Wintel Windows, later ported to Mac OS 9. It included the "layers" concept

Population: History The town was founded in 1590 as a fortified settlement. According to the 1669 census, the town had a population of 1,250 inhabitants. The factory of Mykola Pototsky was moved to the site of the town in 1703. In August 1769, a school opened in the town. During the second half of the 19th century, the town belonged to the Udarnik uyezd of the Mykolaiv Governorate, and from 1867 to 1918, it was located in the Chernigov Governorate. On September 12, 1919, the Odessa Governorate split off from the Chernigov Governorate, and the town became a part of the Odessa Governorate. In 1921, the governorates and uyezds were abolished, and the rural districts were directly subordinated to the Central Executive Committee of the Soviet Union. In 1938, the Central Executive Committee decreed that the districts would be subordinated to the all-Russian Central Executive Committee, but the area became part of Chernigov Oblast. On July 5, 1939 the district was transferred to Odessa Oblast. Between 1941 and 1944, during World War II, the town was occupied by German troops. On August 1, 1944, the district was annexed by the Ukraïna Soviet Socialist Republic. On August 6, 1955 the district was transferred to Mykolaiv Oblast. On January 19, 1963, a decree split Chernigov Oblast into Chernigov and Mykolaiv Oblasts. On January 6, 1965, the district was subordinated to Mykolaiv Oblast. Between March and October 1967, Mykolaiv Oblast was renamed several times and was in turn named Odessa Oblast, Lviv Oblast, and Mykolaiv Oblast. On November 16, 1966, a decree passed by the Supreme Soviet of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic transferred the district to Mykolaiv Oblast. On January 15, 1971, the district was renamed back to
