PROS: Highly customizable images library, has all the tools you need for great workflows, uses the same UI layout as Lightroom CC.,This article is from the archive of our partner. If in case anyone at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security had any doubt about who was running the immigration agency, an internal email finally put them in the right place. The Washington Post reported a Saturday memo to Customs and Border Protection agents from DHS chief of staff Allison H. Maynard in which Maynard claimed "DHS leadership believes this is the appropriate time to reassign Director [Julio] Diaz to a lateral move from CBP to the Office of Chief Counsel." (Diaz is on a month-long medical leave, according to Customs and Border Protection, for unspecified reasons.) There is no doubt that Diaz is beyond a lateral move: A high-ranking Customs and Border Protection official told the Post that Diaz "is not going to return to CBP — he is not here to help us with implementation of the executive order," and "His leadership style is not helping us." As Reuters put it: Diaz has long been a thorn in the side of conservatives in the anti-immigration community who thought he was too heavy-handed in his enforcement of immigration laws. (He has also received a nod from Democrats, who accused Border Patrol of racial profiling in a Senate hearing last year, according to the Post.)Q: how to use csv-like data format for input in caffe image resnet model in python I have a data like this.. 1 10 20 3 2 20 20 2 3 30 20 6 4 20 30 5 ..... What is the most easy way to use this format in caffe image resnet model? I have tried to use numpy but I can't find how to use as input in caffe. a list of samples and their x y coordinates. A: You can use Numpy array instead of csv format. Declare an array of arrays: import numpy as np def get_data(data_file): # Get data as np array all_data = np.genfromtxt(data_file, delimiter="t", d
